

AI that handles the leads you miss
and the follow-ups you forget.

THE PROBLEM

Because CRMs are broken, contractors bleed
$164,000 annually.

THE SOLUTION

Everything you need to scale.

Omnify handles the entire lead lifecycle, from first call to booked appointment, automatically.

Never miss a call

AI answers every inbound call within 2 rings, 24/7/365.

Books while you sleep

Auto-qualifies leads and books appointments directly.

Instant follow-ups

Automated SMS, email, and call sequences within seconds.

Multi-language

Serves Spanish, Chinese, and other language customers.

Up and running in 15 minutes. No hectic manual setups.

One brain that remembers it all.

A single intelligence layer beneath all your channels.

It gets smarter over time.

Self-learning AI that adapts to each lead's preferences.

AI finds the hot zone: SMS + Evening = 72% reply rate. Shifts all outreach there.

The AI builds context with every touchpoint.

A real example of how Omnify handles a single lead across channels.

John never repeated himself. The AI built a complete picture across 4 touchpoints, 3 channels — and self-learns when a channel stops working.

The timing is perfect.

01

Voice AI just got good enough

Synthflow AI raised $30M led by Accel to build no-code voice agents. Founded in 2023, already handling 45 million calls with 99.9% uptime. AI calls now sound human. The quality gap closed in 2024.

02

The best tool still isn't built for SMBs

Avoca AI, our closest competitor, targets enterprise contractors and doesn't publish pricing. Even so, it lacks a unified self-learning brain across channels. Omnify starts at $199/mo. That's $6/day to recover $164K+ in lost revenue annually.

03

AI got cheap enough to give to a plumber

Enterprise-grade voice and messaging AI is now 10x cheaper than it was in early 2024. That's what makes a $199/mo all-in-one possible for a 5-person roofing crew.

A $3 Billion opportunity.

Home service contractors desperately need modernization, specifically in communication automation.
